With a sea of events lined up, Art World Forum is keen to be directing the focus to the Southside of Hong Kong island for the half-day 'by invitation only' event. The day welcomes a selection of experienced speakers from around the world to uncover new working relationships and models which are reconstructing the cultural landscape.

Key topics include a new breed of art fairs, the regional art market and market play of new business models, cryptocurrencies and millennials within an alternative age of building creative capital.
